

Hello everyone and welcome back to The Once And Future Nerd. Gonna keep announcements short this month and get you right in the episode.

We're sponsored this week by Clockworks Academy, from Dr. Paul Moffett. Clockworks Academy offers college-level insight without college-level cost, in all the nerdiest stuff. They've got courses on Beowulf, King Arthur, Robin Hood, The Decameron, Game of Thrones, Dracula, Frankenstein, Zombies, and Werewolves. There's no homework except reading, and the time requirements are flexible, which is great when you're a lifelong learner with lifelong responsibilities. Once And Future Nerd listeners can get ten percent off any purchase with code futurenerd. That's Clockworks Academy dot com, code futurenerd (one word), again Clockworks Academy dot com, code futurenerd, for ten percent off.

And as a reminder, if you'd like to hear these episodes without any ads, you can make a monthly pledge over at Patreon.com/onceandfuturenerd, and get lots of cool rewards including a special patrons-only RSS feed with absolutely no ads. Shoutout to all of our patrons, including David R, Lisa B.F., and Brian K.

I wanna take a second and acknowledge Riley Jones who has played First Snow since the character was introduced. Riley had to step away for scheduling reasons. We wish her the best and thank her for helping create that character. And we also wanna introduce you to Aaron Lanham, they'll be playing the character from now on. Please join us in making Aaron feel welcome in the cast.

Ok that's all I've got today - we hope you enjoy the episode and you'll hear from us again on March 27th our next one!